EARL L. (Curly) LAMBEAU — Head Coach

Curly Lambeau, the dean of major league coaches, is in his 30th consecutive year as head coach of the Green Bay Packers, a team he orgainized as a sandlot aggregation and developed into a six-time world champion.

A native of Green Bay, Lambeau was born on April 9, 1898, and first came into football prominence as a halfback on the East High School team. He later attended Notre Dame, where in his freshman year he became varsity fullback on Knute Rockne's first team in 1918, playing with George Gipp and Maurice (Clipper) Smith, now coach of the Boston Yanks.

Returning to Green Bay after one year in college, he organized the Packers and persuaded the now defunct Acme Packing Company to donate $500 for jerseys. In return for the aid of the company, which was employing him as a shipping clerk, Lambeau agreed to emblazon "Packers" on the team's uniforms. The name remained after the packing company quit.

Lambeau played with and coached the club through 1928, scoring 109 points. He was a forward pass specialists and in later years was to become known as the foremost authority on forward pass offense and defense in football.

As head coach, vice-president and general manager, he has been the key figure in Green Bay's successful drives to six world titles (1929, 1930, 1931, 1936, 1939, and 1944). His Packers are the only team to win three consecutive championships. They also are the only team which has never finished out of the first division in the National League.

Under Lambeau the Packers have won 231 games, while losing only 92 and tying 23, not counting exhibitions, giving them a 29-year average of .715. They have scored 6,172 points while holding the opposition to 3,031.

DON HUTSON — End Coach

Don Hutson is in his third year as a full-time coach, after having served in 1944 and 1945 as a player-coach. Hutson came to Green Bay in 1935 following a brilliant career at Alabama climaxed by a sensational Rose Bowl performance. His first play in major league competition was an 87-yard pass for a touchdown in which he combined with Arnie Herber to defeat the Chicago Bears, 7 to 0.

Spindly, but fast, and with the surest pair of hands in the game, he went on from there to establish nineteen records, more than any other player in the history of football. He was named All-league end six times, won the league's most valuable player trophy twice, in consecutive years, and in 1942 he was the first football player in a nationwide Associated Press poll to select the year's outstanding athlete, finishing fifth.

He caught touchdown passes ranging from four inches to 87 yards and performed other feats which built up into the most unusual success story in football. Against Detroit in 1945, he scored four touchdowns in one quarter, which with four conversions and a field goal gave him 31 points, the most ever scored by a player in one quarter of major league competition.

He makes his home in Green Bay where he owns one of Wisconsin's outstanding bowling alleys and cocktail lounges, and an automobile distributorship. He was born in Pine Bluff, Ark., on January 31, 1913, is married and has three daughters.

WALTER KIESLING — Line Coach

Walter Kiesling has been in the major league only five years less than Curly Lambeau. Starting out with the Duluth Eskimos in 1926, after his graduation from St. Thomas College in St. Paul, Kiesling now is in his 23rd year in the National League.

Following two seasons with the Eskimos under Ernie Nevers, Kiesling joined Pottsville in 1928 and then played for five seasons with the Chicago Cardinals (1929-1933), where he was named all-league guard in 1932. From the Cardinals, he moved over to the Chicago Bears in 1934, and in 1936 he joined the Packers.

He remained with the Packers only one season. In 1937 he went to Pittsburgh to become assistant coach to Johnny Blood. When Blood left Pittsburgh in 1939, Kiesling took over the Steelers for four seasons as head coach. His 1942 team, led by Bill Dudley, very nearly won the eastern division championship. In 1943 he served as co-coach of the Phil-Pitt combine and the following season, when the Cardinals and Pittsburgh merged, he again was co-coach. He was signed by the Packers immediately after the 1944 season.

Kiesling makes his home in St. Paul, a place for which he grew so homesick in his freshman year that he refused to stay at Notre Dame, where he had gone at the suggestion of Joe Brandy, a former Notre Dame quarterback star. He was born in St. Paul on May 27, 1903.

BO MOLENDA — Backfield Coach

Bo Molenda, fullback star on Green Bay's first three world championship teams and coach of the powerful San Diego Naval Base service eleven during the war, was added to Curly Lambeau's staff as backfield assistant last year.

Varsity fullback on Michigan's Big Ten championship teams in 1925 and 1926, Molenda broke into professional football in 1927 as a member of Red Grange's New York Yankees. When the Yankee bubble burst in mid-season of 1928, Molenda joined the Packers.

He remained with Green Bay through the 1931 season, when he was sold to the New York Giants, for whom he played until he was named assistant to coach Steve Owen in 1936. In the off-season he was a baseball umpire in the American Association and the International league.

Leaving the Giants in 1941 to become end coach at Lafayette, he enlisted in the navy as a chief petty officer early in 1942 and was discharged a full lieutenant after 45 months service, during which he participated in the Hollandia and Leyte invasions in the Pacific.

He was born in Oglesby, Illinois, on February 20, 1905, and at present makes his home in Manhattan Beach, Calif.
